

The Institute of European History (IEG) awards 2 research fellowships for international postdocs

Location: Germany

Applications must be posted by August 27th, 2010.

The Institute of European History (IEG) awards 2 research fellowships for international postdocs for a research stay in Mainz from January 2011.

The proposed projects should require a research stay in Mainz for at least 6 months. Funding is € 1.600/month. The fellowships are tailored to young researchers who want to embark upon a new research project after the completion of their PhD. At the IEG they can prepare the ground for their future academic career as independent senior researchers. The close and constant dialogue with historians and theologians of the IEG's research units may yield new insights and perspectives on individual projects (see <http://www.ieg-mainz.de/forschungsbereiche>).

Candidates take up their postdoctoral fellowship within the three years following the completion of their PhD (work experience outside academia NOT included). The PhD-thesis must have been handed in when applying. A joint application for the completion of the PhD and a subsequent postdoctoral fellowship is not possible. Research fellows work and may live at the Institute in Mainz. They may occasionally consult archives, libraries, and specialists or attend conferences outside Mainz as well. The Institute's library (220 000 holdings, more than 500 current periodicals) is available to them for their research. The linguae academiae at the IEG are German and English; fellows must have a passive command of both and an active command of at least one of the two languages so as to participate in the discussions at the Institute.

The IEG promotes comparative or transnational resp. transcultural research on the historical foundations of Europe in the period since c. 1450, particularly its cultural, intellectual, religious, and philosophical dimensions. Projects dealing with European communication and transfer processes, as well as projects on concepts and perceptions of »Europe« and »Europeanness« are particularly welcome. Applications must be posted by August 27th, 2010.
